DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

Figures 1-3 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

For this application, the abstract is more than 150 words and the same as claim

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-5,7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pantigny et al (5,742,058).

With respect to claim 1, Pantigny discloses a matrix readout system. The system comprises: a matrix of detectors DET(i,j) (fig 4a) connected through at least a bus BCj (fig 4a) and converted into a voltage (fig 4b); an impedance matching device (column 4, lines 40-45) and a method for determining the variation of charge (column 6, lines 1-30).

Pantigny discloses a method for determining the variation of charge (column 6, lines 1-30). However, Pantigny does not disclose the method for determining the variation of charge as claimed in claim 1. However, it would have been obvious a design choice to modify Pantigny with different method of determining the variation of charge for different system setups or different environments.

With respect to claim 2, Pantigny discloses a low out put capacitor CPEL (fig 1a).

With respect to claims 3,7, it would have been obvious a design choice to connect the impedance matching device as close as possible to the input of the integrator to reduce the system noise.

With respect to claims 4-5,8-9, Pantigny does not disclose a common-gate TMOS transistor or a feedback amplifier. However, the claimed elements would have been known. It would have been obvious to modify Pantigny's system with the known elements to reduce the system cost.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pantigny et al (5,742,058) in view of Yoshio (Patent Abstract of Japan, EP 62292081).

With respect to claim 6, Pantigny does not disclose a current mirror. Yoshio disclose an image sensor with a current mirror circuit 24. it would have been obvious to modify Pantigny with the current mirror circuit of Yoshio to make the system more efficiency.
